ANTIVIRUS SERVICE

Provide fast, simple, and highly-available antivirus protection for your Enterprise Data Cloud, delivered as a service.

STORAGE INTEGRATED ANTIVIRUS PROTECTION SIMPLIFIES AND SCALES.

With traditional enterprise antivirus, when files are requested they are first transferred over IP networks to dedicated antivirus servers for scanning. When the scan is completed, the results are transmitted back to the requestor. This deployment model delays file access, increases network traffic, requires dedicated server instances to run the antivirus engine, and requires IT organizations to manage and maintain the antivirus engine, licenses, configuration, and data.

McAfee
by Intel

By integrating the McAfee virus scanning engine directly in Virtual Private Storage Arrays, antivirus file scans are performed locally to storage, eliminating network latency, reducing network traffic, and eliminating the requirement for dedicated antivirus servers. In addition, delivering antivirus protection as a service relieves IT organizations of the effort and complexity of managing, maintaining, and supporting antivirus engines and their associated infrastructure.
